

Aidana WillowRaven, mother of three, was trained in Fine Art, Studio Design and 2D Animation at Norfolk State University and Old Dominion University. In her freshman year, her art placed second in a nation-wide college competition hosted by the Stockley Gardens Fall Arts Festival. First place went to a sixth year grad student.

She started designing book covers and illustrating professionally in 2007, and her first published work was a children's book. It won The Author's Lounge's Reader's Choice Best Children's Cover Illustration for May 2008.

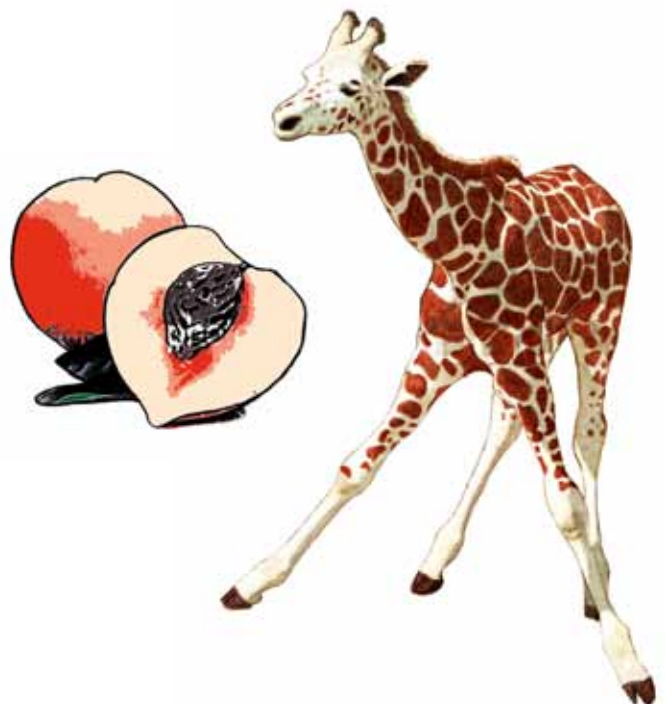

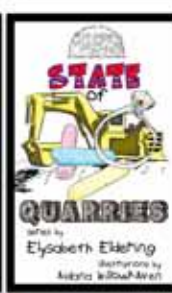

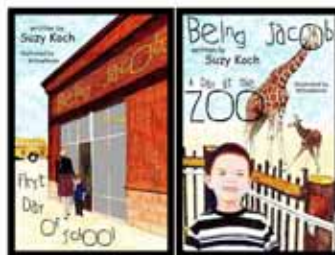

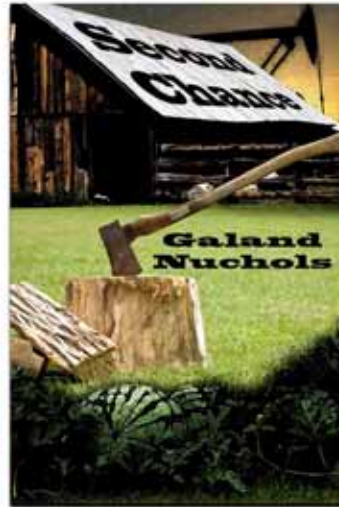

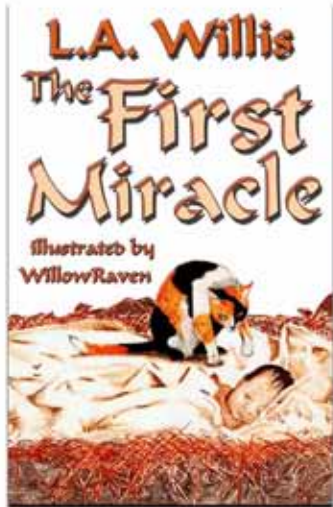

Her company, WillowRaven Illustration & Design Plus, has grown to include not only children's book covers and illustrations, but also novel dust jackets, paperback covers, book layout, author/series logo design/identity, and pre-submission manuscript editing services. Her portfolio contains over forty published works. She has also had several articles published about art, illustration and design.

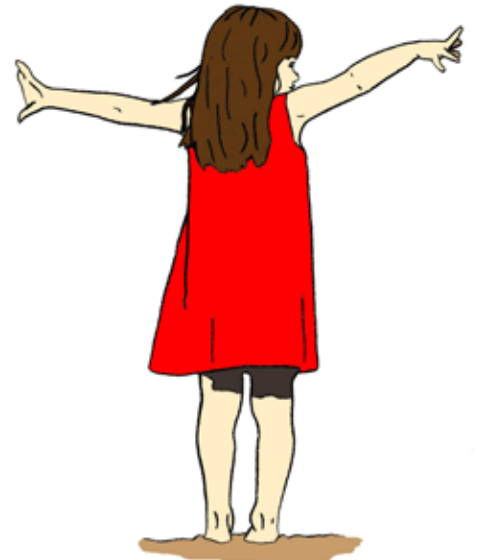

Here are just a few samples:

Book Covers:

Children's Book Illustration:

Anyone interested in WillowRaven's work can contact her through her website: <http://WillowRaven.weebly.com>